UNCLE SAM IS CALLED

To Take a Hand in the Strike of the Packing House Employees.

Importation of Immigrants

May Develop a New Phase on the Situation in Chicago--Emissary of the Bureau of Commerce and Labor Is Now the Scene.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—That the federal government is preparing to take an active part in the stock yards strike was indicated today when International Secretary Call of the Butcher Workmen divulged the fact that he had been in conference with an emissary of the United States bureau of labor and commerce. Who the agent is or what his immediate plans are, Mr. Call has refused to say, but one of the strike leaders made this significant remark: "In everything the packing trust is doing they are violating the law. The very business combination is in restraint of trade and there is not one of them that is not amenable to the federal laws. A sample of their operations came to my knowledge after stories had been printed in the newspapers telling of the importation of immigrants from foreign lands to take the place of American workmen who are on strike. Our pickets found in the street an immigrant receipt showing that the immigrant had been paid $58.70 for passage to Chicago."

"On the bottom of the printed slip was the sentence: 'We hereby agree to rebate to the bearer $58.70 on presentation of this receipt at our Chicago office.'"

"I showed this to an official of the United States bureau of labor and commerce and inadvertently allowed him to keep it."

Recording Secretary Shanahan, of the Packing House Teamsters' union announced that orders would be issued immediately to teamsters to stop the removal of meats from the several cold storage warehouses in this city. The Allied Trades Executive Commission, he said, would act upon the teamsters' position and a report favoring sympathetic action by the teamsters who have been distributing from warehouse would mean the immediate issuance of a strike order to those drivers.

President Donnelly, the strike leader, who has been on a trip to Kansas City and other packing centers arrived in Chicago today.

JUDGE PARKER HAS FILED RESIGNATION.

Political Gossips Will Now Have a Rest, and the People of New York Can Select His Successor.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Judge Parker's resignation as chief justice of the court of appeals was filed with the secretary of state this afternoon. This will enable the issuance of necessary orders to bring about the election of a successor to Chief Judge Parker this fall for the full term of fourteen years instead of an appointment by the governor for one year if the resignation had been delayed until after August first.

Chatted With Friends.

Kingston, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Judge Parker arrived here at 10:45 a. m. He rode from Esopus in an ordinary day coach chatting all the way with personal friends he met on the train. He was not accompanied, even by his private secretary, and few persons on the car noticed him.

At Kingston he left the train without giving any intimation as to his intentions.

DOUBLE TROUBLE ON THIS FAMILY.

Dayton, O., Aug. 5.—While visiting in the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Smith, in Wayne township, Henry, the twelve year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo M. Fiesh, of Piqua was shot and instantly killed last evening by his nine year old brother.

DYNAMITE EXPLOSION

Wrecks Barber Shop and Throws Many Tenement Dwellers Into a Panic.

Passaic, N. J., Aug. 5.—Fifty persons in a three story tenement in the Italian quarter were thrown into a panic today by an explosion of dynamite which wrecked a barber shop on the first floor. The prompt arrival of police and fire departments prevented any serious injuries in the panic. Several people were thrown from their beds by the force of the explosion. The dynamite was placed in the door of the barber shop and exploded

George. The two children were playing about the house with a rifle.

Mr. Fiesh, father of the boys, while enroute to Hot Springs, Ark., yesterday, sustained injuries in the railroad wreck near Louisville. Mr. Fiesh is a merchant in Piqua

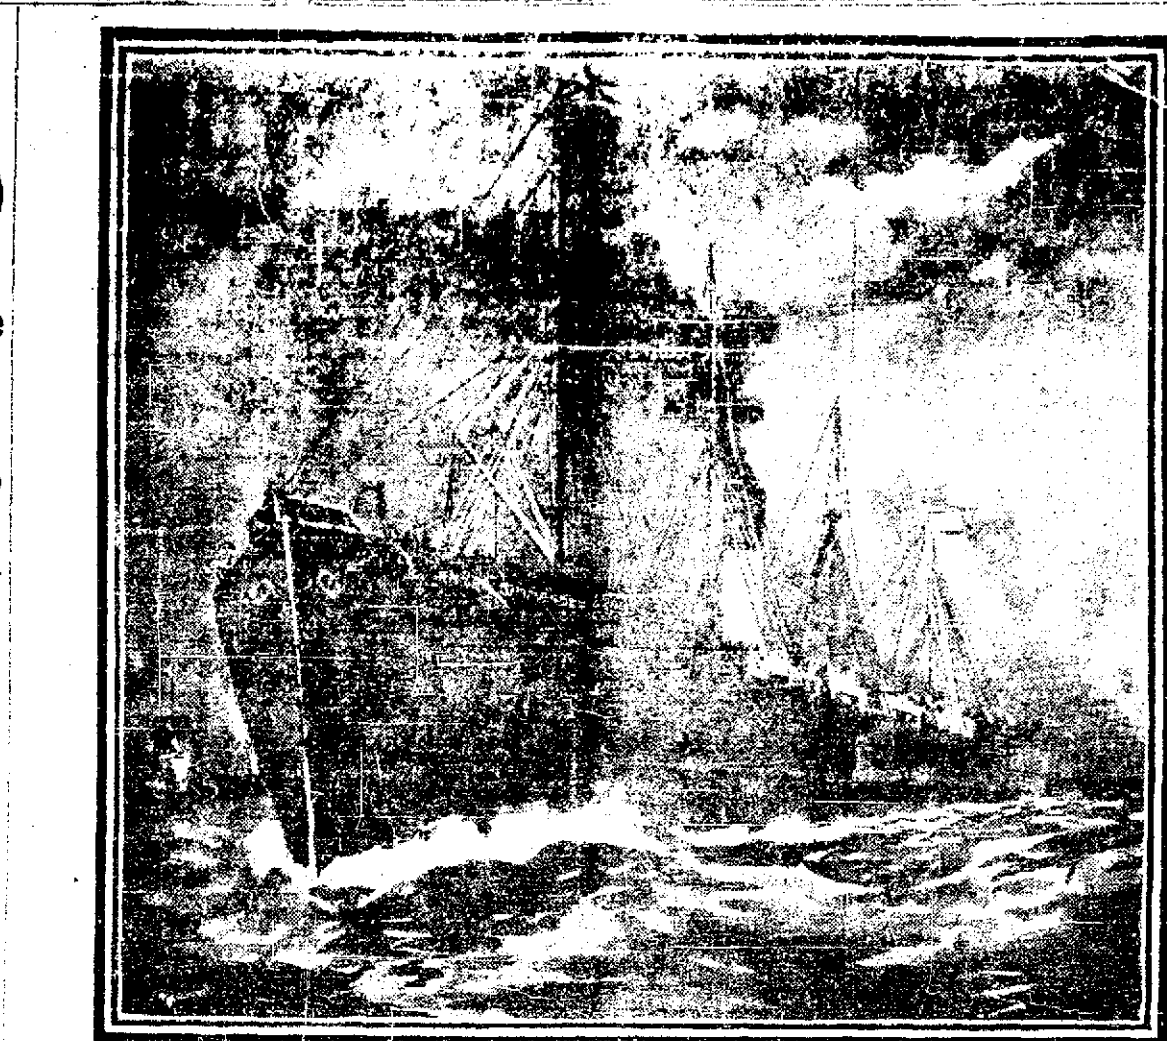

by three men who disappeared immediately afterwards.

KNAPP HAS COLLAPSED.

Columbus, O., Aug. 5.—Alfred Knapp, the "strangler" who has been condemned to die in the electric chair on August 19th, has collapsed and cannot eat nor sleep. He has joined the Catholic church. The prison officials fear he will have to be carried to the chair.

GOING AFTER CITY COUNCILS.

Columbus, O., Aug. 5.—The Metropolitan Paving Brick Co., of Canton, with $1,000,000 capital stock, was incorporated today by Harry S. Renkert, Charles W. Keplinger, James G. Darbour, Jacob J. Renkert and J. Shano.

THE BRITISH STEAMER KNIGHT COMMANDER.

HAVE CAUSED GREAT ALARM.

One Twentieth of Population of a New Jersey Town Has Typhoid Fever.

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 5.—One hundred cases of typhoid fever in the town of Mount Airy, with 2200 inhabitants, have caused great alarm. Nurses are being imported from several points. The typhoid is traceable to a spring where workmen and children drank.

The factors say other springs are contaminated, and signs indicating water holding are posted everywhere.

The town has no water works or sewerage system. Doctors say that unless a pure water supply is provided and a sanitary system established the greater part of the population will be laid low.

FORTY TO DIE.

Port Au Prince, Hayti, Aug. 5.—The stores were re-opened today under the protection of police and without an unusual incident.

The military tribunal has condemned to death by default forty exiled persons accused of complicity in the attempted revolution, headed by Geo. Montplaisir, which failed in January last.

TRIPLE WORK BY A BROTHER

After Killing His Sister and Her Husband He Turns Gun on Himself.

Philadelphia, Aug. 5.—Impelled by cupidity Harry Fisher, thirty years old, early today entered the home of his sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Scheron in the northeastern section of the city, and detected in an effort to steal $1,000 she had in the house, he shot and killed her and her husband, Joseph Scheron. His sister died instantly and his brother-in-law died on the way to a hospital. The report of a pistol aroused the wife of a policeman who lived near by. She hastened out of the house and found her husband on his beat. With two other patrolmen he retired to the Scheron home, and found the wife dead and the husband dying.

While the police were searching for the perpetrator of the crime, Harry Fisher, a disolute brother of the dead woman, walked into the house with blood streaming from a wound in the breast which he had inflicted upon himself. He denounced himself as the assassin and confessed that robbery was his motive.

He was taken at once to a hospital and, while his condition is serious, it is believed he will recover.

After the commission of his crime, Fisher concealed himself in the loft of a stable in the rear of the house. Racked by remorse he turned the pistol on himself. The shot not proving fatal he left his hiding place and surrendered to the police.

Mr. and Mrs. Scheron had been married only one month. The money which caused Fisher to commit the crime was to have been expended in the purchase of a home.

BAKER

Takes Potter to Task.

Says Bishop

Has a Habit of Doing Something

About Once Every Year That Will Keep Him Before the Public.

Will Probably Hear no More After This Flurry Until Announcement That Saloon Has Passed Into Other Hands.

Columbus, O., Aug. 5.—Rev. P. A. Baker, national superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, says of Bishop Potter and his presence at the opening of the new famous New York saloon.

"Some of the brethren who have been discussing the Bishop Potter saloon are talking it altogether too seriously."

"It should be remembered that the Bishop has a habit of breaking out about once a year in some erratic enterprise of interference that keeps himself before the public. It has not been very long since he was reported to have said in a speech to or about the saloon, people that he could not hold the man who worked in it for a crime all week if he did even up occasionally by getting drunk. We will probably hear no more after this flurry, never about this much advertised and discredited saloon until the newspapers announce that it has been closed or passed into other and less censured hands."

"Can anyone imagine Bishop Phillips Brooks, during his life time, trailing his Episcopal robes to the dedication of a beer saloon? He set the standard of christian morals high and lifted many men toward it in a single year."

Bishop Potter has in the past twenty, Bishop Potter may be a great man, but he does and says some very little things.

WILL MEET MONDAY.

New York, Aug. 5.—The next meeting of the democratic national executive committee has been called for next Monday morning at the Hoffman House to consider the preliminary steps for the campaign. Headquarters will be selected and the territory over which the different members of the committee will have supervision will be allotted.

Chairman Taggart of the national committee will arrive tonight and expects to confer with several democratic leaders previous to the meeting of the executive committee.

DEATH OF MRS. PARKER.

The many friends in Lima, of Mrs. Lizzie Parker will be sorry to learn of her death at her home in Marion, Ind., on Monday last. Wm. G. Hilliard, who was in Marion at the time of Mrs. Parker's death, and Mrs. Lydia Lindsey and Mrs. Jennie Taylor who were called there have returned home.

HAMMOND IS MAGNANIMOUS.

Will Not Implicate Suspect Arrested With Him, for the Big Train Robbery.

Holmes, Mont., Aug. 5.—George F. Hammond, who is in jail here, denies positively that John Christie, arrested by Northern Pacific officials at Pope, N. D., on the charge of complicity in the recent holdup of the Northern Pacific railway at Berthoud, was his partner in crime. On the contrary his assistant in that affair, he says, has gone to Canada. Hammond made further statement that he had hidden in a safe place securities taken from the express safe worth $100,000. He says he will not divulge the place of concealment until after his trial and that if he is given the extreme penalty under the train robbery charge, he never will disclose it. Northern Pacific officials assert that the securities he referred to are valuables, consisting of cancelled express money orders.

HONOR

Bestowed Upon Col. Moulton of This City.

Herrick Appoints Him Member of Board of Soldiers and Sailors Orphan's Home.

Columbus, O., Aug. 5.—Governor Herrick today announced the appointment of B. M. Moulton, of Lima, president commander of the Ohio department of the G. A. R., to succeed Dr. W. H. Houston, of Urbana, resigned, upon the board of trustees of the Ohio Soldiers and Sailors Orphan's Home at Urbana. The governor left Mantua shortly after the announcement, and at noon the resignation of General Warren J. Keifer, of Springfield, was received. Secretary Galloway declines to say what explanation either Keifer or Houston offered for their action. Keifer's successor will be named soon.

REMAINS OF MRS. GEN. MILES

Will Be Laid Away Saturday Morning in Arlington Cemetery, at Washington.

Washington, Aug. 5.—The war department has been notified that the remains of Mrs. Miles, wife of Lieut. Gen. Miles, retired, who died at West Point, Wednesday, will arrive here over Pennsylvania railroad and be taken at once to the Miles' residence on N. street. The funeral service will take place Saturday morning at ten o'clock at Arlington. General Miles and his son-in-law, Col. Reber will accompany the remains.

EXPRESS TRAIN WRECKED.

Camden, N. J., Aug. 5.—An express train on the West Jersey and Seashore railroad bound for Cape May, ran into an open switch at Woodbury, New Jersey, about six miles below this city today. A number of passengers were injured. Three baggage cars were overturned and caught fire.

MORE JAPS ARRIVING.

Semi-Circle Formed for Fifty Miles Around Russian Positions.

Czar's Troops Are Crestfallen

Over the Constant Retreating That the Ever Advancing Japs Has Forced Upon Them--Train Loads of Wounded Russians Reach Irkutsk, Siberia.

Hai Cheng, Tuesday (Delayed in transmission)—The Russian have been obliged to retire from here as the Japanese worked around them from the east, threatening to cut them off from Liao Yang. The fresh Japanese troops disembarked at the Port of New Chwang are also advancing on the other flank. The main concentration of the Russians is now about Liao Yang. The Japanese form a semi-circle of about fifty miles around the Russian positions. As this despatch is filed the order for the troops to retire has been given.

the engagements which took place at Yangze and Yshulintzi passes.

Beer for Good Work.

Vladivostok, Aug. 5.—Vice Admiral Skrydloff yesterday inspected the Russian cruisers which recently returned from the raid in the Pacific, thanking the officers and men and especially praising the engineers, going down into the stoke holes to distribute rewards. The engines worked perfectly during the cruise. There was not a single accident to the men of any of the cruisers. The Vice Admiral presented twenty-five cases of beer to the crew.

Imperial Favor Refused.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 5.—5:06 p. m.—The Associated Press is informed that the question of the formation of a responsible Russian cabinet which has been agitated since the assassination of Minister Von Plehve has been submitted to emperor Nicholas, but has not met with imperial favor. Consequently for the present there is no question of a new order of things the only question being whom will succeed Von Plehve.

Situation at Port Arthur.

Chefoo, Aug. 5.—Exhaustive interviews with refugees from Port Arthur who arrived here today elicited nothing materially changing previous stories of the general situation. While the guns of the fortress itself was not attacked directly.

On July 31st, the steamer New Chwang entered Port Arthur from New Chwang, carrying artillery from New Chwang as well as sixty-five thousand shells of various sizes. The refugees say that the twelve inch shell which hit the Japanese gun on Wolf's mountain was not fired from the battleship Retvisan, but from a gun mounted on Peripolkaga Hill. The shell struck a magazine and created havoc.

The refugees declare that the twelve inch guns on board the warships have no difficulty in reaching Wolf's mountain while the Japanese return fire falls short.

Russia Lost Two Thousand.

Tokio, Aug. 5.—It is now estimated that the Russians lost two thousand men in the fighting at Simou Cheng.

The Japanese buried seven hundred bodies in the valleys through which the Russians fought and retreated. Prisoners and Chinese report that many of the Russian dead and wounded were removed by the Russian themselves. The Japanese captured six guns, five hundred and seventy shells, a quantity of stores, and thirty three prisoners. A detachment of the Russian medical corps which was captured by the Japanese was returned to the Russian lines. The Japanese casualties at Simou Cheng amounted to eight hundred and sixty men, including eight officers killed and twenty four officers wounded.

Preparing for Final Stand.

Chefoo, Aug. 5.—10 a. m. Thirty more refugees arrived today on junk from Port Arthur which place they left August first. The departure of all civilians from Port Arthur is said to be owing to the exhaustive preparations for a final stand against the Japanese. Chefoo is being taxed to provide for the unusual influx of travelers. The only good hotel in the city is assigning three or four to a room and the overflow is compelled to accept squalid quarters elsewhere.

Left Seven Hundred.

Tokio, Aug. 5.—10:05 a. m.—The Russians left seven hundred on the battlefield at Simou Cheng, and the Japanese casualties during the same battle aggregated 800.

The Japanese captured six guns at

BOWEN LODGES HIS PROTEST WITH CASTRO.

Seizure of Asphalt Mines Belonging to Americans May Reveal Some Agreements of Her President, Made When Distressed.

Washington, Aug. 5.—Minister Bowen has cabled the state department that he has lodged a strong protest with President Castro against the action of the government in seizing the asphalt mines belonging to the New York and Bermuda Co. The action of the government is said to be supported by two Venezuelan warships in the occupation of the company's property.

Result of Promises.

Washington, Aug. 5.—Through unofficial sources it is learned that President Castro's action in the matter of the asphalt company has been long considered. It is intimated that when in the midst of his last desperate struggle with the rebels, Castro made promises to certain persons and corporations in return for their support financially in his contest. These promises were said to involve the transfer to these people of concessions at that time in the possession of foreign corporations. Castro is said to be a South American who has never violated a promise and the present proceedings relative to the asphalt claims are it is intimated, the outgrowth of one of his promises.

FROM DROVER'S BANK HIT.

Every Portion of Country Come Reports Run Started on Institution by Strikers This Morning.

Of Greater Improvement in Trade. Action Was Taken By Them

Traveling Men Sending in Large Orders for This Season of Year.

In Financial and Mercantile World's Crop Conditions Are Predominating Influence—Wheat Loss by Floods.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—Hundreds of strikers and others today thronged to the Drovers' Trust and Savings bank near the main entrance of the stock yards and withdrew deposits whether large or small. The unusual scene attracted a large crowd.

The strikers' action was taken in retaliation for the alleged action of one of the packing firms, Libby, McNeill and Libby, in making the bank an addition to the pay department.

On Wednesday, it is said, Edward Tilden led strike breakers to the bank in order that they might be paid in cash instead of having to experience the embarrassments growing out of the packers' system of paying in checks.

Long before the bank opened runners were in circulation that the strikers would start a run on the institution in retaliation and when the hour for the test came, the strikers were far outnumbered by outside persons having no interest in the labor controversy, yet all anxious to secure their money.

A double line extending into the street greeted the bank officials. Without protest or explanation it defied the force of paying tellers' and met all withdrawal demands.

The Drovers' Trust and Savings Bank is located in the same building with the Drovers' Deposit National Bank, its local correspondent. Its capital is $200,000 and its surplus and profits are named at $30,000. It has a long list of depositors among the workmen about the yards and pays 3 per cent interest on their savings.

It opened its doors February 3, 1902 and its last report June 19, 1904, shows resources and liabilities amounting to $1,802,500.

"There is no truth in the statements that caused the run," said Vice President William A. Tilden of the bank. Mr. Tilden is a brother of a Libby, McNeill and Libby director, against whom the run is directed. "We are simply meeting the situation by paying without question or argument all depositors who wish to withdraw their money. That is all I care to say."

The other officials of the Drovers' Trust and Savings Bank are Wm. H. Britnal, president; Chas. S. Britnal, cashier; and Wm. C. Cummings, assistant cashier.

Mr. Wm. Britnal is also president of the Drovers' Deposit National Bank, of which Wm. A. Tilden, president of the Trust and Savings Bank is cashier.

Another reason for the creating of the money demand was a rumor which received immediate credence that a brother of the vice president of the bank and who is connected with the firm of Libby, McNeill and Libby had withdrawn money from the bank. This rumor received prompt denial, but the denial was too late to stop the rush of deposits on the part of the people who had small savings in the bank.

The officials of the bank made no attempt to take advantage of the law which allows them to take three months time in which to pay savings deposits and made no attempt to argue with the depositors along the line that the bank was perfectly safe, but simply agreed that people who wanted money could get it.

As the news of the run spread, the crowd of depositors increased rapidly. Some of the more substantial business men of the neighborhood went to the bank and got into line, but many of them soon got over their scare and stepped out, saying that the whole thing was simply the result of fright.

One version of the reason for the run was the retaliation for the alleged action of one of the packing firms, Libby, McNeill and Libby, in making the bank an addition to the firm's pay department. On Wednesday it was said a director led strike breakers to the bank in order that they might be paid in cash instead of having to experience the embarrassments growing out of the packing houses' system of paying in checks.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—From almost every part of the country, from which the International Mercantile Agency has received special reports this week, there are signs of a greater improvement in trade than is customary at this season of the year and few cancellations as a result of the rather calamitous reports that have been set out the past few days from the spring wheat sections in the northwest.

It is quite remarkable how little alarm has been evidenced by the labor troubles that already exist and those that threaten. Locally the state of the men in the packing trade is of small consequence, while indications in the west are that it will soon be settled. In Chicago, Kansas City, Minneapolis and St. Paul, cities that would naturally be affected by the disturbances there is little trace of a reaction in trade. It is equally significant that these same sections should report a very satisfactory distribution of merchandise in view of the estimates that have been made of damage by rust to spring wheat.

In some of the counties of North and South Dakota there has probably been material set back. The best reports are from the south and southwest. It is evident that preparations are being made by merchants in these sections for an unprecedented business. Louisville, Baltimore, St. Louis and Dallas all tell the same story of a present good demand, with satisfactory collections and the prospect of a much better business. Traveling men are sending in larger orders than they have been known to before at this season of the year. This condition applies to clothing, millinery, hardware, dry goods and building material.

In the financial and mercantile world there is no one influence that is having an effect at present equal to that produced by the several aspects of the crop situation. The loss by floods probably reduces the winter wheat yield 25,000,000 bushels. There has been extensive damage in these parts of spring wheat by rust.

If no other loss occurs in the northwest, there will probably be between 575,000,000 and 600,000,000 bushels harvested. There appears to be no warrant for the estimate of a total yield under 550,000,000 bushels. With a production of 600,000,000 bushels, there will be a small exportable surplus.

FIREWORKS PROVE FATAL.

Exploding Rocket Destroys Building, Kills Two People and Injures Five Others.

Havana, Aug. 5.—A large rocket in process of manufacture exploded at the Carracidos fire works factory, on San Lazaro avenue, today, and set fire to other explosives, with the result that the whole stock was blown up, the building was burned, two persons were killed and five others were injured. Three of the injured are believed to be fatally hurt.

Mysterious Circumstances.

One was pale and sallow and the other fresh and rosy. Whence the difference? She who is blushing with health uses Dr. King's New Life Pills to maintain it. By gently arousing the lazy organs they compel good digestion and head off constipation. Try them. Only 25c at H. F. Vorkamp's drug store.

TOMORROW

The Mayor Will Hear Arguments in Chandler Case.

Tomorrow, at 10 o'clock, Mayor Robb will arguments on the motion for a new trial in the case against Edna Chandler, found guilty on the charge of conducting an improper resort. Attorney Henderson, representing the defendant, understood that he was to be heard this morning but the court informed him that the arguments would not be heard until tomorrow morning.

SHAME FOR HER LOVER DROVE HER TO SUICIDE.

Columbus, O., Aug. 5.—Ada Liggett, aged 25, of Columbus, committed suicide last night at Lancaster, by taking morphine. The woman lingered until morning then died. A week ago her sweetheart, Bert Hensley, was arrested for burglary at Sugar Grove, which is supposed to be the cause.

Attend the fire sale at the Townsend Grocery Co., 219 north Main street these hours.

THE ROOTER.

Wedge in the street car's narrow aisle he stands.

The penetration comes from his brow.

His voice is rough and strained, and sore, his hands.

Elbowed by pounding on his neighbor's back.

What matter if rude teamsters block the track.

And supper still a good two miles away?

Light is his heart. He scorns the jostling pack.

For what cares he? The home team won today.

LOCAL OPTION
GIVEN DEFEAT.

Home of Brannock, Author of Bill,
Goes Wet by a Small Majority.

Columbus, O., Aug. 5.—The local option of the anti saloon league received word today that Milford, Clermont county, near the home of Representative Charles A. Brannock, author of the Brannock local option law, had voted wet yesterday by a vote of 179 to 163. Out of a possible 345 votes, 342 were cast. One man came from New Orleans and another from St. Louis to vote at the election.

SULTAN WON'T
WALK TURKEY.

American Battleship Fleet Will Be Detained at Gibraltar Possibly to Make Him.

Washington, Aug. 5.—Minister Leishman has notified the state department from Constantinople that he has failed to receive the expected satisfactory reply from the Sultan, touching the rights of American citizens in Turkey. While the negotiations will continue it is possible that the American battleship fleet will be detained at Gibraltar to strengthen the minister's hands in the conduct of these negotiations.

RECEIVER

Hunt Is Permitted to Issue

A special telegram to the Times-Democrat from Springfield at noon today, announces that Receiver Hunt, of the Detroit Southern has been granted permission to issue $100,000 worth of receiver certificates.

BULLETIN.

Hartford City, Conn., Aug. 5.—Ex-Commissioner of Police Henry Osborn, of this city, was fatally shot at his home, 23 Capitol avenue, today, by a negro servant, and died after his removal to the Hartford hospital. He was secretary of the Dunham Socks Company.

THE IDLER.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Riley left for Cincinnati this morning on an automobile trip. They were accompanied by Mr. Steve McMahon and Miss Genevieve Scott. Shortly after their return from Cincinnati, they will start overland for St. Louis.

C. H. & D. IMPROVEMENTS.

Russell Harding, when he takes charge of the C. H. & D. railroad as vice president will be authorized to spend several million dollars in the improvement of that property. It is said that he will be authorized to practically relay the tracks with heavier steel than is now in use, and that the passenger and equipment and the power will be replaced with the newest the company can secure. Forty new locomotives are to be ordered at once.

The question of headquarters for the combined companies is now under discussion before the board of directors. Cincinnati may not be able to hold the headquarters, as it had hoped. There is a general belief that Toledo will secure at least the headquarters of the operations department. It is the ideal location. The general talk is, however, that the offices will go to Chicago.

Official announcement has been made of the appointment of Mr. C. G. Waldo as general manager of the C. C. & L. railway.—Toledo Times.

Messrs. Geiger and Wilhelm have purchased the Western Ohio stone quarry, located at the intersection of the Shawnee and Wapakoneta roads, and in the future will be well prepared to furnish a fine grade of stone. Remember this when in need of stone.

WEATHER.

Washington, Aug. 5.—For Ohio,
partly cloudy tonight with showers in northeast portion; Saturday, fair.

Senator Hear will have to give a few words to the present and coming legislatures.

Many republicans are becoming impatient with the present and coming
legislatures.

The battle ship Ohio is short on cannon fire then speed. She needs
a new cannon from the people of Ohio in order that her officers can shoot her.

The letter claim made by the republican educational bureau is that the republican party is not responsible for the short crop of wheat in Ohio but is responsible for the high price of the cereal on the Chicago
stock exchange. Nothing gets away from that organization.

The horse automobile and watch
cannon is said to be expected to pull down last year's winning and all because a collared court has decided that the game of coupons with packages of tobacco is the American Tobacco Co. is being done under a law that is unconstitutional.

The remarkable and unparalleled prosperity existing in this land of high protection and full dollar parity
has many examples with a daily reach of the newspaper reader. For instance
—thirty thousand cotton operatives
and untold numbers of meat cutters unemployed while their places are be-

BOTH ARE HAPPY.

The Chicago packers claim victory
and declare that their plants are running at nearly their full capacity. The strikers, representing the other side of the controversy insist that the meat packing industry of the combine is completely demoralized, and its business is practically at a standstill.
Thus it would seem the affairs of both sides are in a highly satisfactory condition, and that everybody is getting along as well as could be expected—
except the consumer who is not so much of a consumer as he was.

TEDDY CRACKED WHIP.

Hon. John L. Sullivan, ex-postmaster, contributes the following to the campaign in his paper, the St. Marys Graphic.

"Tom Taggart's election as chairman of the democratic national committee has materially lessened the chances of the republicans in Indiana.
Taggart is a powerful organizer and has demonstrated his popularity
among his fellow citizens at home, being elected mayor of Indianapolis, a republican city three times in succession. The republicans of Indiana are now, at each other's throats on the question as to whom shall fall the honors of succeeding Senator Fairbanks. But while speaking of Tom Taggart's superior political acumen, I might not be inopportune while passing to note the difference between the manner of his election as chairman and that of G. B. Cortelyou. Taggart owed his election to his strength and popularity with the members of the democratic national committee and not to Judge Parker. Cortelyou owed
his election absolutely to President Roosevelt, the republican national committee was against him; the marshals got after them with their familiar sharp stick and the members of that usually august and deliberative
body meekly and reverently bowed to the will of their master. Their objections to Cortelyou were predicated on his doubtful republicanism and his total lack of experience in political management. But President Roosevelt cracked his whip, and the national committee were either obliged to take their medicine or stir up an awful stomach."

NARROW VISION.

If Governor Herrick's political vision extends beyond the corporate limits of the city of Cleveland, he has not given any substantial evidence of the fact since his elevation to the head of State affairs," says the St. Marys News. "His action on Tuesday in forcing the trustees of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home at Xenia to name Colonel John L. Smith to succeed Gen. C. L. Young as superintendent of the Home is the latest evidence that Cleveland is still very much on the Governor's mind when fat political jobs are being dished out. There were a number of other worthy applicants
for the position, among them being
Col. Geo. Hall, of Lima, whom the governor promised to take care of when Senator Foraker succeeded in having him removed as postmaster a few months ago. It was confidently expected at the time that the governor's unsolicited promise were made in good faith, but Col. Hall is evidently of a different opinion just now. Probably the boys will get what is due them however, when the stock of available bachelors in Cuyahoga county has been exhausted it has been some time since the governor's political friends in Cleveland have had a chance at the public crib owing to the regularity with which that Republican city has been going democratic for several years past, which accounts for the greediness with which they are going after everything in sight."

TAGGART THE MAN.

Samuel G. Blythe the well known
political writer of the New York World says in that paper:
Twenty seven years ago today when the girls in the lunch counter at the Indianapolis railroad station said:
"Draw one!" the faucet in the coffee
urn was turned by a red-cheeked,
blue-eyed, broad-shouldered young Irishman.
Today that same Irishman, still red-

cheeked, has been made Chairman of the Democratic National committee
and placed in charge of the Parker
and Davis campaign.

His name is Thomas Taggart. In the years between 1877 and the present time, he has been county auditor
of Marion county, Indiana, twice, mayor of Indianapolis three times, chairman of the democratic state committee and a member of the democratic national committee. He has grown in a business way too. He grew from the lunch counter in the station to a restaurant of his own, then to the prop-rietorship of a small hotel, then to a larger hotel, and finally to the ownership of the Grand Hotel in Indianapolis and the famous resort at French Lick Springs, Ind.

When Taggart drew coffee, sold sandwiches and handed out pie at the lunch counter, he was a smiling, good-natured lad, full of energy and with a faculty of making everybody his friend. He has not changed. His smile is just as cheery, his eyes
twinkle just as brightly and he seems to grow more energetic as he gets older. He is the sublimated type of a "mixer." He knows everybody in Indiana, knows about everybody worth knowing in New York and has a great acquaintance among politicians and statesmen in all parts of the country. He has been active in politics in Indiana, where every man is a politician, since he walked there
and got his lunch counter job in 1877.
He has won many fights from the epublicans and has been interested in a large way in national democratic politics since he became a member of the democratic national committee in 1892.

Taggart is just what he is said to be —a politician. He believes in getting results. He does not believe in order. He does not plan complicated campaigns. He gets out and gets votes. He can see an advantage as quickly as any one, and a good deal quicker than many. If he is placed in charge of the Parker campaign he will have an active canvass started in ten days.
It is familiar with the methods of both democratic and republican national committees. He knows the workers in all the states. He makes no pretensions about his own status.
He says the way to win a campaign
is to win it; and he proceeds on that theory, without bothering about the ethics of the game.

Taggart has had an ambition to be chairman of the democratic national committee since 1900. There was much dissatisfaction among democrats with ex-Senator James K. Jones who managed the Bryan campaign in 1896 and Taggart said he would like to try his hand at it. Mr. Bryan sent him word that Jones must be defeated. He said it would be fair to let him
try the chairmanship because he lost
in 1896. Taggart acquiesced cheerfully. He does everything cheerfully.
He did what he could to help Bryan
in Indiana. Then when the present campaign came on he frankly stated
his ambition again.

Usually the national chairmanship
is supposed to seek the man Taggart thought that folly. He could not see why a man who thought himself fit to run a national contest should not say so. He realized fully that it will be a great thing to win with Parker,
and he said last winter before the nominee was settled that he believed the democrats would have a good chance this time against President Roosevelt, and he would be glad to get the chairmanship.

Indiana democrats think well of Taggart. They saw no harm in placing him before the country as a candidate for the place, and they endorsed
him at the state convention in May.
After a solid Parker declaration, under Taggart's leadership had been declined. Taggart went to St. Louis still saying that if the committee and the candidate wanted him he was ready to serve.

Taggart is a real Irishman. He has deep blue eyes, light hair, a blond mustache and cheeks as rosy as those of a girl. He is five feet nine inches tall, broad shouldered, with a waist
bent down to trimness by constant outdoor exercise. He shakes hands like McKinley, uses a large, open-
handed, muscular and strong grip.
He is warm and lingering. He is a crack shot, a good horseback rider,
pulls an excellent car, likes to smoke
a cigar, and is a big, red-blooded, vigorous, manly man who greets his friends with a "Good morning, brother."

He was born in Waterford, Ireland,
on November 17, 1836. His father emigrated to this country when Taggart was a child. The family settled in Xenia, O. Later they moved to Cincinnati, Ind. Taggart had such education as he could get in the country schools. He was sent to work when he was fifteen and he got his job in the lunch counter in the Indianapolis
station. He walked there from Garret.
Taggart cut sandwiches and was the general handy man in the resau-rant until he was twenty-one. He made friends with the traveling men
and with the Indianapolis people. As soon as he could vote, and probably before, he went into ward politics, in the meantime the lunch counter had expanded and become a restaurant,
and Taggart was placed in a restaurant
and was a good restaurant man and he was rapidly becoming known in democratic politics in the city.

A few years later, early in the '50s,
he secured some backing and bought a small hotel near the station. He kept a good hotel. Many of his friends among the traveling men stopped with him. He was making a little money and was all the time cultivating his political fortunes. The best office in Indiana at that time was the auditorship of Marion county, in which Indianapolis was situated. The fees of the place amounted to about $50,000 a year.

Marion county had been republican since 1840. There was a democratic organization elected a few aldermen
from time to time but democratic success on the county ticket were rare.
In 1886 there was a nomination for auditorship to be decided upon. No democrat of any consequence in the county would look at it. There appeared to be no chance for the nomi-

nee. The convention met and Thos.
Taggart, the young democrat who kept
a hotel, said he would take the nomination if nobody else wanted it. Indeed, he had planned to get it some months ahead and had a lot of delegates ready to vote for him.

"Let him have it," said the leaders.
"It is better that he should be defeated than one of us."
Taggart was nominated unanimously.
Then the republican papers in the city posed fun at the young Irishman,
who was sure to be beaten, and the older democrats told one another it would be a good lesson for him. Taggart went out in the country and canvassed the city. He had made many friends among the young men. He called them all into his campaign.
He was elected. That $50,000 job
gave him his start. Two years later, in 1888, after he had been made chairman of the democratic county committee, he carried Marion county against Benjamin Harrison, which was an amazing thing, as Harrison
lived in Indianapolis and Marion county had gone republican in every predential campaign since 1856.

Meantime Taggart had expanded
his hotel business. He secured control of the Grand Hotel one of the leading hotels of the city, fixed it up
and became a hotel keeper in earnest.
There had been a sort of tradition
in Indianapolis that the county audi-torship, with its rich fees, should be held by one term by any successful candidate. Taggart said he was bound by no tradition. He became a candidate again in 1890 and won by a large majority than he had in 1886.

He served until 1894, all the time making friends in Indiana. He was chosen chairman of the democratic state committee in 1892 and served four years. He had been chairman of the city committee and had helped twice to elect Judge Sullivan as may-
or. The people in the state had come to look on him as a skillful as well as well as a "lucky" politician. He was ambitious and he is yet. He concealed these ambitions under no false pretenses. After he had finished his second term as auditor he stepped out in the open and said he would like the nomination for mayor of Indianapolis.

There was some opposition, but he went to work in the wards and was nominated. He was elected in 1895
and re-elected twice after that, serving as mayor until 1901. His first plurality was 2,722. Taggart had gone on the national democratic committee
and had supported Bryan in 1896.
Indianapolis gave McKinley a plurality of 6,000 over Bryan. Taggart's
first re-election as mayor followed, his majority being over 4,000. He was elected a third time by about
the same plurality two years later.
In 1900 Taggart continued on the democratic national committee. Indiana was a Bryan state. There are still in that state many democrats who are as loyal to Bryan as they were in 1896 and 1900. So good an authority as John W. Kern says that the proportion is 80 or 90 per cent of the total democratic vote. Taggart was "regular" in both the Bryan campaigns. He did his best to elect Bryan.

Taggart was early identified with the Parker forces. Shortly after the January meeting of the committee he had a conference with William Sheehan and the other Parker managers

in New York, and on his return to Indiana went to work to get that state for Parker. He had a stiff fight on his hands, for William B. Hearst had invaded the state and had secured J.
Oscar Henderson, an Indianapolis
democrat of some prominence, who had himself been auditor of Marion county, to head his campaign. In addition M. F. Dunlap, the treasurer of the democratic national committee,
came over from Illinois and began to work for Hearst.

His Work for Parker.

Taggart turned in a general alarm.
He went to all the leading democrats
of the state and told them that Hearst must not get the delegates. They agreed. He lined up John Kern, Lamb
Venzles, Shively and all the rest.
They all helped Taggart directed the campaign. Hearst made a great noise
before the Indianapolis convention.
Taggart sent a message to the east,
through the World, that Parker would get the delegation, that the unit rule
would be applied and that there would be no Hearst men on the list.

He knew what he was talking about,
indeed, his control of that convention
showed the thorough methods of the man. Every detail had been thought out. He selected Alonzo Green, Smith, not to be. Even man had his part to play.
He instructed for Parker, applied the unit rule and had endorsed Taggart for national chairman. This Indiana instruction for Parker came at that critical time in May when the Parker
managers had not made much public progress. It was hailed in the East
as helping, a great measure to establish the Parker sentiment.

Taggart went to St. Louis and was at once put in the confidence of the eastern Parker leaders. He was actively helped materially in the final work of organization that brought about Parker's nomination. He was Parker's outside of the men from his own
state, was and is Senator Joseph W.
Bailey, of Texas. Senator Bailey organized the movement that brought about the caucus nomination of Taggart by the committee.

Taggart is modest about his qualifications for the national chairmanship. He claims nothing except that he knows the game of politics thoroughly, has played it successfully in that difficult state, Indiana, for a long time, has an adequate knowledge of affairs in other states, acquired during his service on the democratic national committee and on the executive committee of that organization during the two Bryan campaigns. He wants to try his hand and there seems to be a disposition to let him do it. His friends say he has proved his capacity to handle large affairs in his business success in Indianapolis and

DEMOCRAT

Elected Chief Deputy of the Election Board.

Republicans Won the Toss for Secretary and Ex-Mayor J. V.
Smiley Was Chosen.

The Allen county board of deputy supervisors of elections met at the court house and organized today by electing Hon. William Rusher, democrat, of Shawnee township, chief deputy, James V. Smiley, republican, of the Fourth ward, secretary, and John O'Neill, democrat, of the first ward, assistant secretary.

There were two candidates for the office of secretary—Mr. O'Neill and Mr. Smiley—and the board being equally bipartisan the selection was decided by lot. The republican candidate being the winner Mr. Smiley has already filled the offices of mayor and city clerk in this city.

Files Demurrer to Suit Recently
Brought by Its Old Enemy,
George Rice.

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 5.—The Standard Oil Co., filed a demurrer in the court of chancery today to the suit
recently brought against it by George Rice, of Marietta, O., in which he sought to have the charter of the corporation dissolved, charging that it was conducting its business in restraint of the state. The company bases the demurrer on a number of points among which are these:

That the complainant has not shown
his right to any relief; that he has not shown that the case was in the jurisdiction of the court; that he is not a stockholder of the company and that he has not set forth any facts supporting his charges of fraud, conspiracy, oppression and monopolization.
He therefore asked that his bill be dismissed.

Sequel to the Measles

By HARRIET G. CAMPBELL

Copyright, 1904, by M. Wood

Kitty stood at Miss Tremont's door, smiling broadly. "Here's a note, ma'am," she said, holding out a piece of newspaper scribbled along the margin. "The little fellow on the second floor said I should give it to you. He's just getting over the measles and awful lonesome. It's written on the lines like, ma'am."

"Poor little man!" Miss Tremont said sympathetically. "I don't seem to remember him, Kitty."

"No, he just moved in this week, and they've kept quiet like there's no one but the little fellow and his uncle. He paints women's faces—mostly red-headed ones in their back parlor, but he's out today, and I'm getting paid for looking out for Jimmie—that's his name, ma'am."

Miss Tremont read the note and smiled. "Tell him I'll be there soon, Kitty," she said.

Jimmie's note was short and phonetically spelled. "Dear Miss Tremont," it said, "I wish you would please come down and see me. My eyes are weak, and Kitty only says 'that Cindarella.' So no more from your young friend, Jimmie B."

When Miss Tremont knocked at her little neighbor's door an eager, boyish voice called out, "Come right in!" Jimmie was sitting up in bed, supported by many pillows. He was very thin and weak, his eyes and back like a young colt, Kitty said.

"Shake!" he said, holding out a thin little hand. "I can't give 'em to you now—the measles, I mean. It's first class of you to come. Kitty thought you would. Sit down, won't you? It's pretty dark in here—don't of my eyes—but I can see you're awful pretty."

Miss Tremont laughed and drew a chair close to the bed. "Thank you," she said brightly. "Did Kitty suggest that you send for me?"

"No. But it's too dark in here to read, and Kitty just knew one story, and after I'd heard that three times and she was Hal."

"Haven't you got him yet?" Jimmie asked.

"No. I sent him away—I didn't know how dear he was to me—I wouldn't do it now, Jimmie—and he was—"

"Eaten by cannibals?" Jimmie interrupted in an awestruck voice.

Miss Tremont smiled and looked up. A tall young man, with fine eyes, was standing in the doorway, looking at them.

"Uncle Hal!" Jimmie cried. "Uncle Hal, here's Miss Tremont. She came in to—"

But, to Jimmie's surprise, Uncle Hal had crossed the room and was holding Miss Tremont's hands in his.

"Kate," he said, "listen, dear, will you forgive me for listening to what you said to Jimmie? Your words have made me very happy, dear."

Jimmie wondered what it was that had pleased Uncle Hal so much—the bears or the Indians or the cannibals. "I'll bet it was the cannibal story," he said to himself. "She's a Jim Dandy at that."

"Will you forgive me for listening?" Uncle Hal said again.

"Why not?" Miss Tremont asked softly—so softly that Jimmie barely heard her. "It was true, Hal."

Jimmie's eyes opened wide. "Cannibals and all?" he said. But Miss Tremont didn't hear him. Uncle Hal was talking to her again. He coughed once or twice, but they didn't notice him. "You'll have to speak a little louder," he said at last, "if you want me to hear."

Miss Tremont's face grew very pink, and Uncle Hal laughed aloud.

"Never mind, Jimmie boy," he said. "I've been persuading Miss Tremont to adopt you—you'll like that, old fellow?"

"Like it?" Jimmie shouted for joy. Then a sudden doubt assailed him. "Would you mind taking Uncle Hal, too, Miss Tremont?" he said anxiously. "We belong together."

Miss Tremont's laughing eyes met the artist's for a moment. "I understood," she said demurely, "that he was to be thrown in."

Two Lives Saved.

"At a certain suburban station," said a railroad official, "a train was starting off one morning when an elderly man rushed across the platform and jumped on one of the slowly moving cars."

The rear end brakeman, who was standing by, reached up, grabbed the old man's coat tails and pulled him off the train.

"There," he said sternly. "I have saved your life. Don't ever try to jump on like that again."

"Thank you," said the old man calmly. "Thank you for your thoughtful kindness. It is three hours till the next train, isn't it?"

"Three and a quarter," said the brakeman.

"The long train, meanwhile, had been slowly gliding by, slowly gathering speed. Finally the last car appeared. This was the brakeman's car, the one for which he had been waiting, and with the easy grace that is born of long practice he sailed majestically on to it.

"But the old gentleman seized him by the coat and with a strong jerk pulled him off, at the same time saying grudgingly:

"One good turn deserves another. You saved my life; I have saved yours. Now we are quits."

And Lobelia Went.

She—John, how often are you shaved?

He—Four times a week on an average.

"How long does it take?"

"About half an hour."

"Half an hour four times a week! That's two hours a week, four and one-third days in a year and nearly a month and a half in ten years. Think of it, Billiger. If you should let your beard grow you would save time enough in ten years!"

"Look here, how often do you dress your hair?"

"Every day, of course. But that's different."

"That's different, is it, eh? It takes you half an hour every blessed day of your life to look after your frizzes. If that's what you call them. Think of it. Half an hour a day, three hours and a half a week, nearly eight days in a year and an entire month in four years, a whole year in forty-eight years and over two years in a century! Lobelia, you'd better go and look after the baby."

The Profane English Language.

At a suburban station there entered two men of the submerged tenth. I diagnosed one as being of the genus navy and his comrade as in some way connected with the building industry. One of my visitors was endeavoring to explain to his fellow traveler that owing to misdirection on the part of a porter he had missed the previous quicker train. Would you be here it, that the poor fellow, to make this small incident clear to his companion, had to employ as auxiliaries:

Seventeen adjectives of a lurid hue. Five appeals to the Almighty. Two invocations that his own eyesight might be destroyed. Three invocations to the eyes of the official.

Seven iterations of the name of the infernal regions.

Mrs. Dismal

[Original.]

One summer while I was spending my vacation at the seashore with a gay party, as is customary at all beach resorts, we went to the beach about 10 o'clock in the morning and stayed there till midday. Some of us would get into bathing suits and spend the time amply between land and water; others would while away the time on the sand propped by back boards and protected from the sun by umbrellas.

One morning I noticed a lady sitting by herself. The sand was her seat, and, not even shaded by a hat, she wooed the sunlight and the sea breeze on cheek and forehead. Her eyes were bent upon the sky, line with a faraway look in them, as though she were gazing upon a distant continent. Her features were stamped with melancholy. Some great grief was hers, out of joint with the pleasure seeking world. Our party was especially bilious, and I fancied our merriment grated on her.

Every morning the melancholy lady was at the beach, neither speaking nor spoken to. Though I could not refrain from sympathizing with her, she was a damper upon the spirits of others and consequently repellent. In the evening at times she would stand in a doorway looking in at those who were either chatting or playing cards or dancing, but not for long, and later some couple emerging from the hotel for a stroll on the piazza would see her sitting in a dark corner, the picture of loneliness.

"There's Mrs. Dismal again," said a girl on my arm one evening. "Such people should not inflict their sorrows upon others."

I must admit that the melancholy lady continued to be a source of displeasure to all the party except myself. And she soon came to be the subject of those witticisms which thoughtful pleasure seekers are constantly vying with each other in perpetrating one evening while we were all merrymaking at a hop given in the hotel where we were staying a couple came in with a remark about Mrs. Dismal.

The words and the manner in which they were received angered me. I walked out of the hotel, sought the object of their remarks and walked straight up to her.

"Excuse me," I said. "I have no one to introduce me to you. I have observed that you suffer and I wish to help you. If what I do is an intrusion, I will desist."

"There is a Freemasonry between those whose intentions are worthy," she said. "A lady needs no introduction to one who has her welfare in view."

"Consider me as your physician. You are suffering from some grief, a grief that I do not wish or need to probe. Let me recommend in moderation or in such measure as will be beneficial to you a mingling with society."

"My condition has driven away all my friends. For those who are not friends I have no desire."

"You but frustrate the advice. Laugh, and the world laughs with you; weep, and you weep alone."

"I have experienced the truth of your remark. I need to break away from what must at last in all such cases become brooding. But the world has become used to considering me as one set apart for melancholy and does not take me into its pleasures. I admit this is my own fault."

"It is not your fault. It is the fault of an unthinking world that prescribes customs and seasons of mourning. We are not expected to mourn for ourselves, but for the world. It is not a question of what we need to alleviate our sorrow, but what the world expects of us."

"True," she replied musingly. "The world forbade me to be cheerful. I could not be cheerful and I fell into habitual melancholy."

"Let me be instrumental in a new grasp for you upon the world. I am with a party of young people. They are not thoughtful, but they have something which is better for your purpose, a normal happy condition. Use them, and when they have served their purpose turn, if you choose, to stronger remedies."

She assented, gave me her name and told me that she had seen husband and child stricken before her eyes. Then, taking my arm, she walked with me into the dancing room.

When the boys and girls saw me coming with "Mrs. Dismal" on my arm their eyes were big with astonishment. I presented the widow, and with all the ingenious, unreasoning inconsistency of youth they received her with open arms and made her a part of their circle.

But the unmerciful crew at once turned their backs on her to me. In vain I assured them that I had acted from disinterested motives. The young men—some of them—refrained from overstepping the bounds; the girls never. They dubbed me "Mr. Dismal," and I knew they never referred to me and the widow among themselves without speaking of us as the "Dismal lovers." But if I fell in love with the lady they followed my example, and there was no pains they would not take to serve her or her comfort. For they, at least, had the delicacy to vent their raillery only upon me.

The next winter I heaped coals of fire on their heads by inviting them to our wedding and giving them a house party after our return from our wedding trip. But not one of the girls would ever admit that I had not fallen in love at first sight and acted accordingly.

Sometimes I fancy there was some truth in the accusation.

CHEERFUL WOMEN.

How to Keep Happy.

DESPONDENCY is a thing of evil origin and evil results. Worry produces nothing but wrinkles and wretchedness. Let the reader put up a little note on her bureau, just two words, "Worry Worry."

The greatest foe to the happiness of any household. An anxious, despondent, a fretful, complaining voice, will make every one uncomfortable.

A woman's nerves are more truly the cause of worry than outside troubles. The nerves are to a woman's body the telegraph system, which surely warns her of any trouble in the feminine make-up.

WHY WOMEN HAVE "NERVES."

"That is the reason why women have 'nerves.' When our thoughts begin to grow cloudy and uncertain, our impulses lag and the warnings of pain and distress are sent like flying messages throughout our limbs and frame, we straightway, nine times in ten, lay the cause of the trouble to some defect in the point where we first feel it. Is it a headache, a backache, a sensation of irritability or twitching and uncontrollable nervousness, something must be wrong with the head or back, a woman naturally says, but all the time the real trouble very often centers in the womanly organs. In nine cases out of ten the seat of the difficulty is here, and a woman should take rational treatment for its cure. The local disorder and inflammation of the delicate special organs of the sex should be treated steadily and systematically."

Dr. Pierce, during a long period of practice, found that a prescription made up entirely of roots and herbs, without the use of alcohol, cured over ninety per cent of such cases. After using this remedy for many years in his private practice he put it up in a form that would make it easily procurable, and it can be had at any store where medicines are handled.

"I was troubled with headache and stomach trouble, also other female weakness. Having read a great deal about your cures I concluded to try the medicine. My husband purchased a bottle of 'Favorite Prescription.' I was no time taking it before I felt better. Can't thank you enough for the good it has done me. I hope others may be benefited by its use as I have been."

"I can strongly recommend Dr. Pierce's medicines, especially the 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery,'" writes Mrs. Clara Gardner, of Rainey, Mo. "I suffered from nervous debility, brought on by hard work and trouble. I had suffered several years; was growing weaker gradually, not only in body but in mind also. I began taking your medicine last spring. Commenced to improve from the start, and by the time I had taken twelve bottles, six of the 'Favorite Prescription' and six of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' felt that I was well enough to get along without medicine. Was like a different woman and would not have been in the condition I was before taking the medicines for a hundred dollars. Am well and hearty now, and if I ever need medicine again, will certainly take Dr. Pierce's."

SAVING OF LABOR BY MODERN METHODS

Is the Secret of Making Profits Out of Gigantic Contracts—What Is Intended to Be Done to Build the New Reservoir.

Work on a gigantic sale will accomplish the completion of the new reservoir, preliminary arrangements for which have been made. Contractor Cliff Wise, of St. Louis, who has been engaged by J. C. Linneman and his associates, who secured the contract for the work, has a plant second to none in the country when it comes to performing gigantic tasks, and as soon as a clearing is made, he will remove his machinery to Lima.

Engineer Gamble has made a survey for the laying of a side track from the Pennsylvania road, and a belt line that will be in the neighborhood of two miles in extent. Mr. Wise has his own locomotives, cars, dredging machines, engines, etc., and when once the track is established, machinery will do the work of hundreds of men. Next week active work will begin in clearing and grubbing the premises and before many days the heavy work will be gotten under headway and rushed to completion.

FIRM Stand Is Still Maintained By Both Sides

Though Peace Conference Is Sought

By Cattle Shippers and the Union Stock Yards and Transit Co.

The Approach of Sunday Looms Up Before the Strikers as a Menace to Their Weakening Ranks.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—In face of persistent peace rumors strikers and packers all gave evidence today of grim determination to stand their ground and carry the struggle over into next week. There were indications that by that time both sides would regard the offices of intermediaries with favor unless either side should develop weakness warranting the other holding out with renewed determination to fight the issue to an end.

To the strikers the approach of Sunday loomed up as a menace because of difficulties in holding ranks together over the opening of a new week. The strike leaders had positive information that emissaries of the packers were at work in all districts quietly offering highly skilled labor tempting inducements to break away. Pressure was also being brought upon strikers' wives through direct individual appeal. To offset this the leaders figured on the return of President Donnelly to arouse enthusiasm and prepare a monster demonstration for tomorrow with the same end in view. While feeling sure of the men, it was admitted it was not easy to hold hungry families in line. Efforts were therefore directed towards impressing the men with the vastness and solidity of the strike and with the necessity of remaining firm.

Efforts to bring about a peace conference were today explained as being due to the cattle shippers and the Union Stock Yards and Transit company, both neutrals who have lost heavily through the strike. At the instance of both, General Agent Skinner of the Stock Yards company visited the strike leaders yesterday. Finding them receptive, he gave attention to the packers. Little encouragement was met with from the packers. Believing, however, that the situation was not without possibilities, he returned to the strike leaders who were awaiting him at the transit house. In the meantime the strikers here attempted to bring pressure to bear on the packers from other sources and in so doing had acquired information from which the inference was drawn that the strikers' position was stronger than had been believed. In consequence, when Mr. Skinner returned he found the strike leaders unwilling to make any marked concessions. While Mr. Skinner was conferring with the strike leaders, a representative of the packers casually appeared, giving color to an impression that important negotiations were actually under way, and impression that was not lessened through the fact that confidential men from the packers shadowed every movement of the strike leaders today that moment on. It was declared today however, that nothing tangible had developed tending to point towards immediate peace.

Strikebreakers continued to pour into the yards today. The new arrivals included a train load of immigrants. The recruits were frightened into hysteria by a series of explosions caused by strike sympathizers placing dynamite caps and salt petre on the tracks. No property damage resulted.

Seagulls families whose homes have been continuously attacked by certain strike breakers appealed to the police for protection today. John Kiel, an employee of Swift and company reported that the entire front of his house had been wrecked. Crowds, hurled clubs and refuse through the gaping apertures where windows had been.

A police detail was assigned to protect the property. Similar action was taken regarding six other places where like conditions were reported.

Nearly 10,000 strikers were today each paid from the strike treasury $7, the so-called weekly benefit. This is the first benefit paid to the strikers.

JERRY'S LOVE BUSH

By
M. Louisa
Cummings

Copyright, 1904, by T. G. McHenry

Old Jerry lifted his head and looked after "the mistress" with vague distress while she made her third restless round of the grounds. Then he dug savagely in the bed of scarlet geraniums, irrespective of the plants' good.

"Why doesn't the master come home?" he demanded querulously, with the anxiety of one who had lovingly followed "the mistress's" life up from the days of white cotton socks and sailor collars.

The trowel dropped from his hand as his eyes turned back to the tall figure in its trailing white draperies. Her dark eyes had been too filled with woe to notice the old gardener. Her arms were crossed upon her bosom as though she would thus hold down him across the grass to the south wall. Jerry scarcely breathed as he followed and stood behind her. Oh, the wealth of blossom the love bush had once borne! She remembered how the old gardener delighted to bring the fragrant armfuls to her on the anniversary of its planting—the day that Aleck had brought her home. Now—She looked at the blighted, twisted leaves, clinging as if for shelter to the wall, and a sob, which was the upheaval of all the torture and despair in her heart, tore her delicate throat. Her face as she turned it to Jerry was an agony.

"Save it!" she pleaded. "Oh, Jerry, if it is not quite dead, save it!"

"Yes, ma'am." But Jerry's voice was husky and he drew his coat sleeve across his eyes. "This safe enough she is now, glory be to God!" he added in a whisper.

He stood in the shadow of the wall until she had strolled back to the house, carrying the one poor blossom of the love bush with her. Then he made his way to where beyond the grounds lay a strip of moonlit road.

At sight of the figure which paced impatiently back and forth there Jerry's body was convulsed again, but this time with savage triumph.

"Aye," he hissed slowly, "ye may walk, an' ye may walk again, an' ye may keep on walkin' till the feet drop off ye an' the Devil gets yer warts!" for—

an' the Lord be praised for it!

It was the one regret of Jerry's life that he was in bed and asleep that night when the master got home. Evidently Johnny, with the aid of a sudden and suspicious ailment of the bay mare, had "bade his soul" to some purpose that morning. The master had arrived at 10 o'clock, according to Mrs. Riley, the cook, and to the best of her belief, he and the mistress had talked all night.

Jerry was assiduously doing his best for the love bush the next morning when they came out of the house. Mr. Aleck's strong shoulder behind the mistress, she leaning back against him, her face white and shining with love.

The old gardener rose quickly and came to meet them.

"If you'll believe me, ma'am," he began eagerly, "this is a new shoot I best this mornin' found on the rose bush be the south wall, an' as true as I live, it 'd isn't covered with strong, healthy buds!"

Taken With Cramps.

Wm. Kirmse, a member of the bridge gang working near Littleport, was taken suddenly ill Thursday night with cramps and a kind of cholera. His case was so severe that he had to have the members of the crew wait upon him and Mr. Gifford was called and consulted. He told them he had a medicine in the form of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy that he thought would help him out and accordingly several doses were administered with the result that the fellow was able to be around next day. The incident speaks quite highly of Mr. Gifford's medicine.—Hawley, Iowa, Argus.

Hurdock Blood Bitters gives a man a clear head, an active brain, a strong, vigorous body—makes him fit for the battle of life.

"I will be ten year ago come tomorrow week since I planted it," Jerry went on reminiscently, "I mind well 'twas the very day the master brought ye home, ma'am. I can see yez now, standin' hand in hand lookin' at me!"

Her fingers had gone swiftly to her throat as if the lace there strangled her. Jerry watched her for a moment.

"An' sure there never was such a tree for blossomin'," he went on slowly. "I used to think that the love in the eyes of yez both that day blessed it. 'Sure 'tis a love bush, I see to myself. An' 'tisn't in yer two arms ye could carry the roses on it when it began to bloom, an' they the sweetest that ever grew. But lately—somehow—I dunno!"

His voice had trailed off into the inexpressible and monotone of his race. The slender figure before him quivered, her hands twisting themselves convulsively in the folds of her cloak.

"Last year," he quavered on, "there was but three small buds on it; this year there's but wan. I misdoubt if it's alive at all—the love bush 'll be another year."

She moved stumbly away from him across the grass to the south wall. Jerry scarcely breathed as he followed and stood behind her. Oh, the wealth of blossom the love bush had once borne! She remembered how the old gardener delighted to bring the fragrant armfuls to her on the anniversary of its planting—the day that Aleck had brought her home. Now—

She looked at the blighted, twisted leaves, clinging as if for shelter to the wall, and a sob, which was the upheaval of all the torture and despair in her heart, tore her delicate throat. Her face as she turned it to Jerry was an agony.

"Save it!" she pleaded. "Oh, Jerry, if it is not quite dead, save it!"

"Yes, ma'am." But Jerry's voice was husky and he drew his coat sleeve across his eyes. "This safe enough she is now, glory be to God!" he added in a whisper.

He stood in the shadow of the wall until she had strolled back to the house, carrying the one poor blossom of the love bush with her. Then he made his way to where beyond the grounds lay a strip of moonlit road.

At sight of the figure which paced impatiently back and forth there Jerry's body was convulsed again, but this time with savage triumph.

"Aye," he hissed slowly, "ye may walk, an' ye may walk again, an' ye may keep on walkin' till the feet drop off ye an' the Devil gets yer warts!" for—

an' the Lord be praised for it!

It was the one regret of Jerry's life that he was in bed and asleep that night when the master got home. Evidently Johnny, with the aid of a sudden and suspicious ailment of the bay mare, had "bade his soul" to some purpose that morning. The master had arrived at 10 o'clock, according to Mrs. Riley, the cook, and to the best of her belief, he and the mistress had talked all night.

Jerry was assiduously doing his best for the love bush the next morning when they came out of the house. Mr. Aleck's strong shoulder behind the mistress, she leaning back against him, her face white and shining with love.

The old gardener rose quickly and came to meet them.

"If you'll believe me, ma'am," he began eagerly, "this is a new shoot I best this mornin' found on the rose bush be the south wall, an' as true as I live, it 'd isn't covered with strong, healthy buds!"

Sick Headache.

"For seven years my wife was troubled with what physicians called sick headache of a very severe character. She doctored with several eminent physicians and at a great expense, only to grow worse until she was unable to do any kind of work. About a year ago she began taking Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and today weighs more than she ever did before and is really happy. New York, N. Y. For sale by all druggists."

They still go.

STRIKING WORLD'S FAIR FACTS.

The World's Work—The fair as it stands represents an outlay of $50,000,000.

The agricultural building contains nine miles of aisles.

The ground covers 1240 acres, twice the size of Central Park.

There are four miles of tracks in the transportation building.

Eight thousand horsepower is required to operate the Cascades.

Queen Victoria's jubilee presents displayed are valued at $6,000,000.

The total weight of the exhibits in the machinery hall is 60,000,000 tons.

The Philippine reservation of forty-seven acres is the largest single exhibit.

The illumination at night is from 350,000 electric lamps of 6,000,000 candlepower.

The pumps at the Cascades are capable of pumping 165,000,000 gallons of water a day.

The total horsepower is 60,000, nearly double that of Paris, Chicago and Philadelphia combined.

LESSENING THE TEMPTATION.

From the Pittsburg Post—"Well Caesar," said Col. Kaintuck, "I hear you've joined the church."

"Yes, sah," the old darky replied, "I sho' has."

"That means you've reformed, of course."

"Oh, yes, sah, co'se hit do."

"Well, now, let's see how you'd stand temptation. Let's suppose a case. Suppose you were coming across my property, Caesar."

"Yes, sah."

"And you saw some object that belonged to me. Suppose you saw a great, big, fat, juicy watermelon. You wouldn't steal it, would you?"

Caesar shifted uneasily from one foot to the other.

"Look yere, Kernel," he blurted finally, "lyant you make dat object somepin else besides er watermelon, sah?"

CONSUMPTION THREATENED.

Left in Neglectful State Caused Arrest Of Mother Who Paid a Heavy Fine.

Neighbors Complained to the Humane Society of Mr. and Mrs. H. Keller,

And Evidence Before Justice Mowen Established Good Grounds for Punishment—Plea of Guilty.

The humane society disposed of a complaint yesterday which was brought to its attention by neighbors of Henry and Grace Keller, who live on the corner of Union and Market streets. The parents were charged with the neglect of an infant which was left to go unattended for several days, and a warrant was issued for their arrest by Justice Mowen, through the application of President Eastman.

Yesterday, counsel representing Mrs. Keller appeared and entered a plea of guilty on behalf of Mrs. Keller who was fined $10 and costs and warned that it would not be well for her to appear again under a similar complaint. From the evidence, it appears that the woman is careless and neglectful and was unmindful of the attention the child needed. There were no specific acts of cruelty charged, and since the complaint was made there has been an effort on the part of the mother to change her tactics.

This incident, together with the Steinback case, which was published yesterday, should arouse the public's interest in a society which is doing a quiet but effective work in relieving the suffering of innocent ones, and if there was more active support from the citizens, there would perhaps be fewer children sent to the county home, and less cruelty on the part of those who have no sympathy for child or beast.

CORONER'S

Verdict in Fatal Accident at Swanders.

Attributes It to Thoughtlessness of Youth on One Hand,

And Dangerous Rate of Speed at Which W. O. Car Was Running. Some Suggestions Concerning Public Roads.

The coroner of Shelby county, has returned the following verdict in the accident at Swanders in which Miss Amelia Davis and Mr. Austin Nutt were killed by a work car on the Western Ohio railway, which struck the automobile they were riding in.

The Verdict.
"I find that this unfortunate accident is the result of the thoughtlessness of happy youth on the one hand, and the dangerous rate of speed at which this car was running on the other. Public roads are public property and the right given steam and electric railroads to cross them should not be considered as giving up the right to use these roads for the purpose for which they were first intended and use them in safety. The public never will be served properly unless served safely and fast schedules should not be established at the cost of human life."

From witnesses before the coroner, was developed the fact that Motorist Millard had given the usual warning at the crossing. Other men on the car testified that when the car was between 700 and 800 feet from the crossing that the automobile was standing still, and that as they approached within 200 feet of it the automobile was started forward. The motorist applied the emergency brakes, but the car ran seven pole lengths before it came to a stop, having struck the machine at practically full speed. Where the main part of the demolished automobile and the bodies were picked up was 36 feet north from where the car struck the automobile.

The motorist testified that the car which has a maximum speed of forty-five miles an hour, was running at that rate when he applied the brakes. The statements of various persons confirm the traction employee's testimony that the automobile was started across the track in the face of the approaching car, the driver either being wholly unmindful of its approach or having started his machine ahead, when he intended to back it up.

COUNTY

Teachers Institute Will Convene on the 15th.

The county teachers institute will open in Lima, August 15, and continue five days. Under the new code, teachers who attend every session, both morning and afternoon, will receive the same salary for the week that they would for teaching the same length of time. In order to receive their pay, a certificate must be presented to the board of education signed by the president and secretary of the institute.

A good sized audience assembled at the McBeth Park Theatre last night to witness the good old time play of "Ten Nights in a Bar Room," which pleased all in the highest degree. Mr. Wilson R. Todd did a clever bit of acting as Joe Morgan and little Pauline Palmer, as his little daughter, was exceptionally clever and fully demonstrated the fact that she is a natural born actress. Tonight the pie eating contest takes place between 2 blacks and 3 whites, with their hands tied behind them. This ought to create fun for all.

AUTO

Disputed a Crossing With C. H. & D.

And the Crash

Came While Both Were Going Full Speed.

The Four Occupants of the Machine Had an Escape That Was Miraculous

And Only One was Injured—Conductor Harding and Engineer Long Were in Chagrin of No. 3 at the Time.

Engineer Charlie Ling and Conductor Harding of the C. H. & D., have had lots of experience in their line of duty, but none more full of excitement, although not attended by any especial hazard on their part, as an incident which occurred while they were thundering south with No. 3 yesterday evening.

By an escape that seems little short of an act of Providence four automobilists, members of the St. Louis run of the American Automobile association, were saved from a horrible death at Perrysburg, and the accident is described as follows in the Toledo Times.

Nearing Perrysburg they were probably going at the rate of 30 miles an hour, and as they saw no signs of a railroad truck and heard no train they did not slacken their speed any.

Suddenly this gigantic auto, which is the largest ever made in America, shot out of a road and was bearing down on the railroad track, when the four men at a glance saw the express thundering along. The auto responded to the brakes, but the momentum was so great that it was carried along several feet and struck the tender of the engine with a crash. This gave the machine a partial turn, and it slid along until it came to the opening between the tender and the baggage car. Into this place it crashed and Behrens, who was on that side of the machine was precipitated from the machine. He landed on the rear steps of the baggage car and, as if by miracle, was tossed back against the machine.

"The front end of the auto was demolished and utterly ruined, while Behrens, who was thought killed, picked himself out of the dust and stoutly proclaimed he was unharmed. The three other occupants of the car were unharmed but badly frightened."

LOCKOUT OF ALL UNIONS

That Have Ordered Strikes in Subway and Elsewhere Is Pretty Certain.

New York, Aug. 5.—The striking building trades unions were said today to be prepared to accept the challenge of the Building Trades Employers' association and that a great lockout of all the unions who have ordered strikes in the subway and elsewhere in the buildings trades.

When the ultimatum of the employers was sent out two days ago, the strikers were given until today to return to work. The ultimatum stated that unless the demand was met by the strikers the effected unions "will be put on the street on Monday." At the Building Trades Employers' association it was announced that none of the strikers had reported for work, and that consequently the lockout threatened by the employers will become effective. Unofficial statements were made which show that about 40,000 men, associated with the building trade alliance, would be affected.
